
Statuary Pavilion

Statuary Pavilion B Gardens - Ballarat Heritage Review, 1998

Statuary Pavilion - Film 7 / Frame 17- Ballarat Conservation Study, 1978

Statuary Pavilion - Front elevation - Ballarat Conservation Study, 1978

Location

GILLIES STREET, AND WENDOUREE PARADE, LAKE WENDOUREE, BALLARAT CITY

Municipality

BALLARAT CITY

Level of significance

Incl in HO area indiv sig

Victorian Heritage Register (VHR) Number

H2252

Heritage Overlay Numbers

HO13

Heritage Listing

Ballarat City

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 4, 2024

What is significant?

How is it significant?

Why is it significant?

Part of Recommended Area A6.1

No SoS provided in this citation. Please refer to descriptions, history, construction, loc govt, listings and images sections in this place record for further information.

Heritage Study/Consultant	Ballarat - Ballarat Heritage Review, Andrew Ward, 1998; Ballarat - Ballarat Conservation Study, Jacobs Lewis Vines Architects, 1978;
Construction dates	1887,
Architect/Designer	Molloy, TE,
Other Names	Ballarat Botanical Gardens,
Hermes Number	120409
Property Number

Physical Description 1

The Statuary Pavilion was constructed in 1887 to the design of T.E. Molloy for the City of Ballarat to house the collection of statues donated to the City under the will of James Russell Thompson 'who died' in May 1886. The statues were selected by Thomas Stoddart and the Honourable James Service. This delightful building is a rectangular octagon with a convex curved roof from which rises a small octagonal lantern light with its own eaves cresting, miniature dome and decorative finial. The two entrance faces of the polygon rise in a glazed pediment and are divided by slim shafts with capitals. All faces of the building are glazed in large panes with narrow margin strips in the Regency fashion, as are the lights in the lantern, and even the pediments. Below the windows are stall boards which have embossed surfaces. The interior is intact with a display of various statues of classical derivation behind double brass rails supported on elaborate posts with a spiral between the rails and a shaped cap. The pavilion with statues, is a major feature of the Botanical Gardens and is enhanced by the garden setting. This building appears to be completely intact. It is a unique structure with no comparable surviving examples in the State.

Intactness

INTACTNESS: intact

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>