
HALFWAY HOTEL

Location

LINCOLN CAUSEWAY GATEWAY ISLAND, WODONGA CITY

Municipality

WODONGA CITY

Level of significance

Heritage Inventory Site

Heritage Inventory (HI) Number

H8225-0097

Heritage Listing

Victorian Heritage Inventory

Interpretation of Site	Features may be associated with the Halfway Hotel site. Brick scatter may indicate the presence of subsurface structural remains. But as the actual site could only be inspected from behind the fence, there may be additional features and artefacts. Domestic/commercial site.
Archaeological Significance	Local and moderate significance. Detailed and Survey may reveal additional features.
Historical Significance	One of the few remnants of a 19th century commercial establishment within Wodonga.
Hermes Number	12362
Property Number

History

A memorial at the site of the Halfway Hotel says that the hotel existed between 1886-1938.

The 2010 reconstruction of the Melbourne to Sydney Railway avoided the building and most of the adjoining property.

The Halfway Hotel was built in 1886 as Gateway Island, a former swampy area between Wodonga Creek and the crossing for the Hume Highway (now Lincoln Causeway) at the Murray River. The Hotel was roughly between the CBDs of Albury and Wodonga (hence the name Halfway Hotel).

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>