Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

The site is of local significance as it is associated with an earlier house on the property.

Interpretation of Site	The well was constructed for domestic use in association with a house demolished in the 1950s. The well never held water as it leaked. It was used as a dump for domestic and rural refuse until recent years (Mrs. Whittle, pers comm). The presence of recent butchered bone, a Pepsi can and horse manure on the surface of the well supports Mrs. Whittle's account.
