Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

This place was reviewed by Residential Flats in Stonnington Study Stage 2 (Context, 2011) and is recommended for detailed assessment in Stage 3. It is of potential significance:

As a good example of the Luxury type designed by Edward F. Billson

As a good example of the Old English/Moderne style

Double storey inter-war 'Old English' style (with Moderne influences) maisonette/flat development. The architect was Edward F. Billson. Significant features include the external original materials and detailing of the building (which remains very intact), side and front brick and tile fence and steps and wrought iron balustrades, the circular concrete driveway layout, the original front fence with a semi-circle with integral seating at the main driveway entrance and the whimsical weathervane (a witch on a broomstick with her cat arching its back, situated on the apex of the copper roof of the projecting front bay).
