History

The Club Hotel was built in 1884 and was originally called the New Entrance Hotel. Louis Larson was manager between 1884-9 when it was owned by Mr Hunter. In 1889 Charles Brown was licensee. The hotel was then bought by Mrs Contaully in 1893, her daughter Charlotte and son-in-law ran it. Clara Gough was publican between 1894-1911. In 1912 Molly Holly, her brother and sister owned the hotel. It is unclear how long the Hollys owned it, but the two Misses Hallett and their sister Mrs West owned it from around 1937-1950s, during which time the establishment was an upper class accommodation resort, and Robert Menzies is reputed to have stayed there.

Little information is available regarding ownership of the hotel after the 1950s. The Club Hotel burnt down on 22 December 2000.
