STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

St. Marks' On the Hill at Leopold constructed from bluestone between 1859 to 1862 is the mother church of the Anglican community on the Bellarine Peninsula. This simple and original Early English gothic style church is an interesting parish church design and a notable work of Edward Prowse, a Geelong architect with an acknowledged reputation, having earlier designed the impressive mansion "The Hermitage" in Newtown. Bishop Perry laid the foundation stone in December 1858 and following a lengthy fund raising campaign the steeply gabled rectangular plan church was opened in 1862.
