Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

A Listed - State Significance

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This site is one of the few buildings recorded during this project as an Historical archaeological site on the Bellarine Peninsula, that appears to have been constructed of hand-made or wire-cut bricks. The house is dilapidated but with evidence of good paint and architrave detail on the inner walls. The building has floorboards and therefore has a good potential for sub-surface cultural material. The land around the building is presumed to have had outbuildings, however it has been graded, It is likely that the site was part of a small farming community, as the only owner identified to date (Mr Percy Maude) has been noted in 1910 and in 1930's as prominent chicken farmer.

It is of State significance.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Mr Percy Maude Estate

Site contains a weather vane built by Ron Stabb, Joyce Stabb could provide more information (Chris Gordon)

Physical Description 1

Description

A triple gable corrugated iron roof house with three external brick chimneys, two on the east elevation and one on the west elevation. On the outside the building is brick to ceiling level then timber boards above the ceiling line. There are large very decorative bargeboards, a north elevation timber panelled door, bay window remains and other window and door openings. There are large trees in the vicinity.

This red handmade brick house is now vacant. The surrounding land has been graded. The house appears to have been built completely of handmade bricks and it has floorboards, and good paint and architrave detail on the inner walls.

There is good potential for underfloor deposits.
