Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Architecturally, potentially a skilful application of the Queen Anne domestic style, as expressed by its attic placement and detailing also supporting a notable group of contemporary houses.

Physical Description 1

Situated among the city's best Edwardian houses, this one is only partly visible from the street, having been recently encased within high brick walls. Differing slightly in its design approach, the house achieves a little more of the picturesque by the attic porch placement, on the angle, looking back towards Flemington.

Otherwise the high-hip slated roof, with its terra-cotta detail, corresponds with the domestic Queen Anne Style pattern. Chimney-top details are also mildly unusual.

Integrity

External Integrity (Obscured)

Generally original (as viewed from the street) except replacement of the assumed picket fence by high brick walls.

Physical Description 2

StreetScape

Among the city's best Queen Anne and Bungalow Style house group, albeit interspersed with unrelated new development (47,53).
