Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Canary Island date palm rows and the oak, Johnson Reserve, are significant to the City of Maribyrnong:

- as distinctive and mature trees which are uncommon within the general planted context of the City, judged by their maturity, type and numbers ( Criterion B2);
- for their contribution to this distinctive inter-war public landscape created within the City under the noted Footscray municipal parks and gardens Curator David Matthews ( Criterion A4, H1).

Australian Heritage Commission (AHC) criteria

The Australian Heritage Commission criteria consist of a set of eight criteria which cover social, aesthetic, scientific, and historic values. Each criterion has sub-criteria written specifically for cultural or natural values. The relevant criteria are:

B.2 rarity

A.4 demonstrates well the course and pattern of history, important historic events

H.1 association with important person or group

Physical Description 1

Long rows of mature Canary Island palms as border to grassed open reserve. There are also oak (large), elm and ash trees. There are 6 palms on the north side, 21 on the west side, and 7 on the south, a total of 34 palms.

This massive palm from the Canary Islands grows to 50 ft (15 m) tall with a spread of 30 ft (9 m), and has a sturdy trunk up to 3 ft (1 m) across and arching, deep green fronds up to 12 ft (3.5 m) long. Small yellow flowers in drooping clusters in summer are succeeded by inedible, orangeyellow, acorn-like fruit. This palm needs plenty of room to show off its dramatic symmetrical shape. In areas prone to frosts, plant an advanced specimen when the danger of frost has passed {Botanica}.
