Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

Tynong North former Methodist Church, originally known as Christ Church, Berwick, has been an important community meeting place from c1870 and is significant to the Cardinia and Casey Shires as a major and early public building in both districts. The church may be the oldest (in part) public building in Cardinia Shire. It also provides evidence of the development of small hamlets in the shire, in this case Tynong North.

Physical Description 1

This is a simple gabled church, clad with weatherboards and roofed with corrugated iron. It has a gabled porch with finial and distinctive arched openings (windows and doors) which may be indicative of its reputed early date (c1870), as linked with its classical styling. The windows have multi-paned glazing and the roof gable retains its finial. The concrete stumps and lack of mature planting around the church confirm that it has been moved to the site and restumped

Physical Conditions

The main part of the church is externally near original but an unrelated timber addition has been attached to one side. The porch appears to have been added in a related form
