Physical Description 1

The Keilor Village streetscape is formed predominantly by the street median plantings and adjacent reserves. Significant individual buildings include the Court House, Police Station and Keilor Hotel, while the Chisholm Shelter site and the old Maribyrnong River Bridge form the eastern approach to the precinct. Plantings include good un-pollarded sugar gums. Canary Island pine (Pinus canariensis) and maritime pine mixture are part of the general street landscape, which also includes elms. There is a pine avenue along Macedon Street/Old Calder Highway and a notable tree avenue extending from near Kennedy Street to north of Overnewton Road. Median planting in Macedon Street is mainly a mixture of gum and stone pine (Pinus pinea). This particular landscape is special in terms of the unusual mix and number of trees.

The Site Number in the right hand column identifies places that are also individually listed in the Brimbank Heritage Study. The surviving places that are contributory to the precinct include the following:

Physical Conditions

The survival of extensive open space and wide road reserves with their mature trees is the significant component of this streetscape precinct, and represents a high level of integrity. Modern road construction such as the introduction of extensive concrete kerbing, footpaths and road widening is intrusive, however.
