Statement of Significance

Last updated on - September 27, 1999

What is significant?

The former Bridge Hotel was built in 1868 as a nine-roomed timber hotel for licensee John Watson. The hotel was de-licensed during the post-First World War temperance revival. It is a two-storeyed weatherboard building with a corrugated iron hipped roof and a splayed corner entrance. The former hotel has been a private residence since its was de-licensed.

How is it significant?

The former Bridge Hotel is of architectural and historical significance to the state of Victoria.

Why is it significant?

The former Bridge Hotel is architecturally and historically significant as an extremely rare survivor of the once many timber mid-nineteenth century hotels built in Victoria. It is now one of only a few known early timber hotels remaining in the state and the only known early two-storey timber hotel in metropolitan Melbourne. The former hotel, with architraves around its windows and a framed corner entrance, exhibits a simplicity of design and detailing. This simplicity and the splayed corner entrance are characteristic of hotels of this type and age. Although the building has undergone some alterations, it retains its original external form and some early interior features including fireplaces, room number signs and gas lighting fixtures.

Permit Exemptions

General Exemptions:

General exemptions apply to all places and objects included in the Victorian Heritage Register (VHR). General exemptions have been designed to allow everyday activities, maintenance and changes to your property, which don't harm its cultural heritage significance, to proceed without the need to obtain approvals under the Heritage Act 2017.

Places of worship: In some circumstances, you can alter a place of worship to accommodate religious practices without a permit, but you must notify the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria before you start the works or activities at least 20 business days before the works or activities are to commence.

Subdivision/consolidation: Permit exemptions exist for some subdivisions and consolidations. If the subdivision or consolidation is in accordance with a planning permit granted under Part 4 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and the application for the planning permit was referred to the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria as a determining referral authority, a permit is not required.

Specific exemptions may also apply to your registered place or object. If applicable, these are listed below. Specific exemptions are tailored to the conservation and management needs of an individual registered place or object and set out works and activities that are exempt from the requirements of a permit. Specific exemptions prevail if they conflict with general exemptions.

Find out more about heritage permit exemptions here.

Specific Exemptions:

General Conditions: 1. All exempted alterations are to be planned and carried out in a manner which prevents damage to the fabric of the registered place or object. General Conditions: 2. Should it become apparent during further inspection or the carrying out of works that original or previously hidden or inaccessible details of the place or object are revealed which relate to the significance of the place or object, then the exemption covering such works shall cease and Heritage Victoria shall be notified as soon as possible. General Conditions: 3. If there is a conservation policy and plan endorsed by the Executive Director, all works shall be in accordance with it. Note: The existence of a Conservation Management Plan or a Heritage Action Plan endorsed by the Executive Director, Heritage Victoria provides guidance for the management of the heritage values associated with the site. It may not be necessary to obtain a heritage permit for certain works specified in the management plan. General Conditions: 4. Nothing in this determination prevents the Executive Director from amending or rescinding all or any of the permit exemptions. General Conditions: 5. Nothing in this determination exempts owners or their agents from the responsibility to seek relevant planning or building permits from the responsible authorities where applicable. Minor Works : Note: Any Minor Works that in the opinion of the Executive Director will not adversely affect the heritage significance of the place may be exempt from the permit requirements of the Heritage Act. A person proposing to undertake minor works may submit a proposal to the Executive Director. If the Executive Director is satisfied that the proposed works will not adversely affect the heritage values of the site, the applicant may be exempted from the requirement to obtain a heritage permit. If an applicant is uncertain whether a heritage permit is required, it is recommended that the permits co-ordinator be contacted.

History

The former Bridge Hotel was built in 1868 as a nine-roomed timber hotel for licensee John Watson. He sold the hotel in 1891 to a Mrs Marquis whose publicans were Charles Morris and James Devonshire. George Nickels was licensee early this century until the post-First World War temperance revival. John O'Brien lived in the de-licensed hotel during the 1920s.[1]

The former hotel is currently a residence; at one time a barber shop business was conducted at the front with attached residence. The original or early lean-to structure has been demolished in recent years and replaced with another weather-boarded addition in keeping with the original.
