Statement of Significance

Last updated on - January 1, 2008

Villa Italia is of local architectural significance. While this style of house is common in Melbourne's southern suburbs this example is an unusually sophisticated example for the northern suburbs and, in this sense, is unique in Coburg.

Physical Description 1

Villa Italia is a triple fronted house in the Moderne style featuring a waterfall facade composition with textured and glazed cream brick walls and a flat roof with wrought iron balustrade. The windows are steel framed, with curved glass corner windows, with a flat cantilevered concrete porch roof which extends the width of the front facade.

The front garden retains the original low textured and glazed cream brick fence and wrought iron gates, attached garage and landscaping.

Key Architectural Elements: curved cream brick parapeted facade steel framed windows with curved glass cantilevered concrete porch roof
original cream brick front fence and gates

Principal Historic Themes: post-war migration
