Statement of Significance

Last updated on - December 6, 2006

A terrace of six stucco-fronted houses, the central pair of three storeys with a Tuscan columned verandah and balcony above. The flanking buildings have two storeys at the front and three at the back, with a recessed loggia behind Tuscan piers at ground floor level. The verandahs and loggias are each under three arches of which the central one is larger. The whole complex, though of plain design, is an unusual example of a symmetrical composition in two and three storey facades of very ample design and substantial construction, in excellent condition, though with some alteration from the original form of 1865-6.
