
Mission To Seamen Building

B4588 Mission To Seamen

B4588 Mission To Seamen

B4588 Mission To Seamen

Location

717 Flinders Street,, DOCKLANDS VIC 3008 - Property No B4588

Municipality

MELBOURNE CITY

Level of significance

State

Victorian Heritage Register (VHR) Number

H1496

Heritage Listing

National Trust

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - May 28, 2008

During 1916, Walter Richmond Butler designed a new Mission to Seamen to replace premises in Siddeley Street, which had been resumed by the Harbour Trust during wharf extensions.

He designed the complex using a mixture of styles, one of which was the Spanish Mission Revival which had become active in America during the 1890s. Appropriately the chapel and bell tower took on this style, whilst the administration, residential and recreational building adjoining shows the influence of C. A. Voysey's domestic architecture, with its projecting gable, pepper pot chimneys and three adjoining oriel windows.

Lady Stanley, wife of the Mission's patron Governor Stanley, laid the foundation stone for both of the above sections of the complex in November 1916. Both were completed by late 1917 whilst the stupa-like gymnasium was finished soon afterwards.

The complex is a milestone in both the introduction of the Spanish Mission style to Melbourne and the initiation of England's most recent approach to domestic architecture which was to continue in Walter Butler's residential designs into the 1920s.

The buildings are near to original externally and possess some notable interiors such as the chapel, the internal courtyard and loggia, the main hall and lobby and the mysterious gymnasium.

Classified: 05/02/1981

Other Names The Mission to Seafarers Victoria Inc.,

Hermes Number 64997

Property Number

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>