Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 26, 2005

An Anglican church of 1872-3 which is unusual as one of the very few privately endowed examples in the metropolitan area, as well as being a particularly characteristic and successful example of the work of Charles Webb. It is of brick with cement dressings, with a handsome square tower, a polygonal chancel with three contemporary stained glass memorial windows, and a wheel window at the West end.
