Statement of Significance

Last updated on - October 3, 2006

A timber church of 1909 which, despite the naive combination of a Gothic arched door with square pointed windows, achieves an elegant Arts and Crafts character in the gable woodwork, with its neatly incorporated cross, and has a natural timber finish internally. This character would have been even more pronounced with the original dark (probably stained) finish of the shiplap cladding which is now painted white.

Classified: 23/02/1989

File Note 17/10/2011: The building has been extensively restored throughout 1997 and the first Wedding Ceremony as a privately owned and operated Wedding Chapel occurred in January 1998. St Cuthbert's continues to operate as a Wedding Chapel. It is also used for funerals, christenings and naming Ceremonies as well as for meetings and small conferences.
