

FORMER NEW ZEALAND LOAN AND MERCANTILE COMPANY LTD BUILDING

FORMER NEW ZEALAND
LOAN AND MERCANTILE
COMPANY LTD BUILDING
SOHE 2008

1 former new zealand loan
& mercantile company
ltd building collins street melb
corner view

former new zealand loan
& mercantile company
ltd building collins street melb
streetscape

Location

538-544 COLLINS STREET MELBOURNE, MELBOURNE CITY

Municipality

MELBOURNE CITY

Level of significance

Registered

Victorian Heritage Register (VHR) Number

H0478

Heritage Overlay Numbers

HO613

VHR Registration

October 8, 1980

Heritage Listing

Victorian Heritage Register

Statement of Significance

Last updated on - December 8, 1999

What is significant?

The Former New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Company Ltd Building was built in 1909-10

The four storey red brick and freestone building was designed by Oakden and Ballantyne and built by Swanson Brothers. The walls are red brick, sitting on a granite plinth, with render around the windows and sandstone ashlar blocks at the bottom part of the wall and in some areas around the windows. The building's prominent corner site is accentuated by a heavy corner tower with oriel windows. The windows of the ground and first floor are slightly recessed within extended arches featuring stone voussoirs, while balconettes separate the third and fourth floors.

How is it significant?

The Former New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Company Ltd Building is of architectural significance to the State of Victoria.

Why is it significant?

The Former New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Company Ltd Building is of architectural significance for its unusual and eclectic style which is symbolic of a transitional time in Victorian architecture. Its free and eclectic use of Classical elements, oversized and ruptured details, broken pediments, over-scaled keystones, balustraded balconettes, oriels, combination of contrasting red brick and stone, metal clad cupola with ventilation turret and circular and arching windows with stone voussoirs demonstrates a move away from the exotic art-nouveau/romanesque back towards more conservative Classical styles just prior to WW1. The use of the Free or Edwardian Baroque styles in commercial buildings was unusual in Melbourne, and this building is now a rare example. The building, particularly the King and Collins Street facades and the cupola with ventilation turret and flagpole on the roof, represents an example of excellent early twentieth century craftsmanship, and is a major contributor to the Collins Street streetscape.

Permit Exemptions

General Exemptions:

General exemptions apply to all places and objects included in the Victorian Heritage Register (VHR). General exemptions have been designed to allow everyday activities, maintenance and changes to your property, which don't harm its cultural heritage significance, to proceed without the need to obtain approvals under the Heritage Act 2017.

Places of worship: In some circumstances, you can alter a place of worship to accommodate religious practices without a permit, but you must notify the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria before you start the works or activities at least 20 business days before the works or activities are to commence.

Subdivision/consolidation: Permit exemptions exist for some subdivisions and consolidations. If the subdivision or consolidation is in accordance with a planning permit granted under Part 4 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and the application for the planning permit was referred to the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria as a determining referral authority, a permit is not required.

Specific exemptions may also apply to your registered place or object. If applicable, these are listed below. Specific exemptions are tailored to the conservation and management needs of an individual registered place or object and set out works and activities that are exempt from the requirements of a permit. Specific exemptions prevail if they conflict with general exemptions.

Find out more about heritage permit exemptions here.

Construction dates	1909,
Architect/Designer	Oakden & Ballantyne,
Heritage Act Categories	Registered place,
Hermes Number	740
Property Number

History

Contextual History:History of Place:

The site had a varied history prior to the construction of this building. Between 1860 and 1890 it hosted a police station, a gaol and an Immigrant Depot. After 1890, uses included a pawnbroker, a warehouse, a woolbroker, a grainbroker, some general carriers and a commercial traveller's residence. At the turn of the century this site was occupied by a brick store and wooden shop. Both were owned by Eva Wright.

Associated People:

Extent of Registration

Historic Building No. 478 The Former New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company Limited Building (Presently known as Security House) 538 Collins Street, Melbourne (to the extent of the total external fabric of the original building having frontages of 21.34m (70 feet) to each of King and Collins Streets).
[Victoria Government Gazette No. 85 8 October 1980 p.3425]

This place/object may be included in the Victorian Heritage Register pursuant to the Heritage Act 2017. Check the Victorian Heritage Database, selecting 'Heritage Victoria' as the place source.

For further details about Heritage Overlay places, contact the relevant local council or go to Planning Schemes Online <http://planningschemes.dpcd.vic.gov.au/>