Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 20, 1999

What is significant?

The Former Lalor House at 293 Church Street Richmond was erected in 1888 for local doctor, Joseph P. Lalor, son of the celebrated Eureka Stockade leader and politician Peter Lalor. The arcaded, two storey brick and stucco residence and surgery was designed in an original and exaggerated boom classicism style by American-born architect William George Wolf.

How is it significant?

The Former Lalor House is of architectural and historical significance to the State of Victoria.

Why is it Significant?

The Former Lalor House is of architectural significance as an exemplary boom style classicism design. It is characterised by an innovative, exaggerated use of massive classical motifs, harsh tonality and exuberant ornament. It is rivalled only by Benvenuta at Carlton and Labassa at Caulfield for period architectural importance in Victoria. The building remains intact and of high external integrity. The iron palisade fence is preserved.

The Former Lalor House is of historical significance for its associations with the Lalor family.

Peter Lalor, the father of the house's owner, was a celebrated leader of the Eureka Stockade rebellion and later a politician, and died at the house in February 1889.

Permit Exemptions

General Exemptions:

General exemptions apply to all places and objects included in the Victorian Heritage Register (VHR). General exemptions have been designed to allow everyday activities, maintenance and changes to your property, which don't harm its cultural heritage significance, to proceed without the need to obtain approvals under the Heritage Act 2017.

Places of worship: In some circumstances, you can alter a place of worship to accommodate religious practices without a permit, but you must notify the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria before you start the works or activities at least 20 business days before the works or activities are to commence.

Subdivision/consolidation: Permit exemptions exist for some subdivisions and consolidations. If the subdivision or consolidation is in accordance with a planning permit granted under Part 4 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and the application for the planning permit was referred to the Executive Director of Heritage Victoria as a determining referral authority, a permit is not required.

Specific exemptions may also apply to your registered place or object. If applicable, these are listed below. Specific exemptions are tailored to the conservation and management needs of an individual registered place or object and set out works and activities that are exempt from the requirements of a permit. Specific exemptions prevail if they conflict with general exemptions.
